

Anita Jacoby AM

Anita Jacoby is a Non-Executive Director and one of Australia's most experienced media executives, with a career spanning more than thirty years in the broadcast industry. She is currently an Associate Member of the Australian Communications and Media Authority. Formerly, Anita was Managing Director of ITV Studios Australia, responsible for the local subsidiaries of British media company, ITV plc, one of the world's largest studio and production businesses.

Prior to ITV, Anita managed one of the most successful independent production companies, Zapruder's other films, alongside Andrew Denton. Zapruder's produced many successful original programs including Enough Rope, The Gruen Transfer, Hungry Beast and Elders.

A strong advocate for women in media and leadership, Anita is a Board member of Chief Executive Women and Member of the Australian Institute of Company Director's; a Non-Executive Director of Women in Media, Documentary Australia Foundation and The Funding Network; a member of Screen Producer's Australia and an Ambassador and former Advisory Board member for 1 Million Women. Anita is also an Ambassador and Chair of the Duke of Edinburgh Award's Brand Marketing & Communications Committee. Previously she was a Non-Executive Director of headspace (National Youth Mental Health Foundation), Arts Law Centre Australia and the Australian Film Institute/Australian Academy of Cinema and TV Arts.

Anita's work has seen her awarded five AFI (Australian Film Institute) Awards, an AACTA (Australian Academy of Cinema & TV Arts) Award, an Order of Australia Media Award, a Logie, Asia-Pacific Broadcast Union Award and numerous other professional awards.

In 2019, she was awarded a Member of the Order of Australia.