

Short bio March 2021

Sally Patten is the editor of BOSS, Australia's premier leadership and management brand published weekly in The Australian Financial Review and online. She writes extensively on leadership, careers, the workplace and diversity.

Prior to this, Sally was the Financial Review's Personal Finance Editor, writing and commenting on superannuation, funds management, insurance, investment strategy and financial advice.

Prior to joining the Financial Review, Sally lived in London and Hong Kong for 15 years. Latterly she worked at The (London) Times for six years, as a reporter and business news editor.

She is a previous winner of the Citigroup personal finance and economics awards and in 2014 won the award for best editorial comment in the State Street Institutional Press Awards, Asia Pacific.

---